TO THE CLASS OF 1980

What words of wisdom could I possibly offer now that will carry the faint ring of truth in 1990?

I can't tell you about "the real world." Most of you have been there -- as employee, wife, husband, veteran, in a hundred different ways. I can't even tell you what it will be like to be married, establish a home, start a family, take out your first mortgage. Many of you are well down that track.

I can only underscore something that you are beginning to sense in 1980, that you will see with greater clarity by 1990, and that you will know with absolute certainty in the year 2000. And that is that your need to continue learning will grow, not diminish, with the passing years.

In connection with whatever work you do and in terms of your personal growth, you will soon discover a need and desire to stay in touch with learning. Opportunities for formal and informal education of all kinds will be as essential to you as food, clothing, and shelter.

If I have any message to offer the Class of 1980 that may serve you well in the future, it is this:

Make learning a central part of the lifestyle you will be establishing in the next few years. Work at learning; enjoy it; give it the priority it deserves. And in the year 2000 you will look back with satisfaction and pleasure knowing that Ohio State did its part to point you in the right direction.

Sincerely,

Harold L. Enarson

A FAREWELL TO JESSE OWENS

Jesse Owens served on Ohio State's track team from 1933 to 1936, during the time of Germany's World War II reign of terror across Europe.

Ironically, the 1936 Olympics was held in Berlin, Adolf Hitler used this opportunity to try to prove his theories of racial superiority. His hopes were short-lived.

Hitler's athletes were not only thwarted by an American, but by a black American, Jesse Owens, who won the Olympic gold medal for the United States in the backyard of the Third Reich. An enraged Hitler refused to recognize Jesse and refused to shake his hand.

We dedicate this book to Jesse Owens, a Buckeye who left his mark in history. There is little left for the Class of 1980 to say except "Thank You, Mr. Owens, and farewell."

Legal insurance

An Ohio House bill allowing universities to provide student legal insurance, similar to student health insurance, would offer a practical way to beat the high cost of legal fees.

Although no definite legal insurance program has been drawn up, funding would most likely come from small, voluntary donations added to quarterly fees.

With this money, a service could be set up where students could go to lawyers and law students for consultation about problems such as landlord-tenant disputes, domestic problems and consumer complaints.

Considering the size of most student budgets, paying a few extra dollars every quarter to ensure against high legal fees makes sense.

USG fights crime

The incidences of arson, bicycle thefts and other crimes in the university-area have been increasing rapidly in recent months.

Undergraduate Student Government (USG) should be commended for its decision to take positive action to combat this frightening situation.

USG is attempting to mobilize the concerned south campus area residents to be crime "watchdogs." A crime alert project will be touched off in about two weeks, when USG distributes safety information door-to-door.

All students must support USG's efforts to make off-campus housing a safe place to live.

Crime prevention taught

About 250 of the 700 south campus area residents who registered for a crime alert project attended a training session Thursday sponsored by the Undergraduate Student Government (USG).

Residents learned to identify suspects, secure their residences, defend themselves against attack, report crimes and increase awareness and observation.

Residents who participated in the training session are to work with police to make trespassers in the neighborhood accountable to the people who live there, said Chief Donald Hanna of the OSU Police.

Officials from the Columbus Division of Police, OSU Police, Franklin County Prosecuting Attorney's office and the Columbus Fire Department participated in the session.

The Columbus police and county prosecutor's office helped USG organize the project to increase neighborhood awareness in the area of West Eighth, West Ninth and West 10th avenues between High Street and Neil Avenue. The area has one of the highest crime rates in the city.

Columbus Police Chief Earl Burden said the police cannot do the job of crime prevention and reporting without the help of residents.

Student vote drive proves successful

A three-week campus voter registration drive accounted for nearly one third of an estimated 11,000 Franklin County residents who registered to vote in a recent county-wide effort.

The Undergraduate Student Government (USG) and the Ohio Student Association (OSA) registered 3,500 students in the drive which ended Saturday.

The drive peaked last week as USG members staffed a registration booth on the Oval. They also set up registration tables in campus dining halls Thursday evening and registered 1,000 dorm residents.

"The extra effort in the dorms made a big difference," said Nancy Taglione, USG legislative affairs director and OSA president. The dorm effort gave the drive an extra push, making it a success, she said.

About 2,500 students registered in an on-campus drive last year.

USG members are to call students who registered during the drive and remind them to vote, she said. They also plan to post fliers on campus to remind those who registered to get out and vote.

SET booklet ready Wednesday

The Undergraduate Student Government (USG) will publicize student evaluations of 34 classes and their teachers in a booklet available Wednesday.

The Student Evaluation of Teachers (SET) booklet contains evaluations of faculty in Art Education, Political Science, Communications and Journalism. The booklet will be available in those offices.

Teachers and classes in the booklet were evaluated on a scale of one to 100.

The lowest rating any teacher received was a 61 and the highest a 93. The lowest rating for a class was a 56 and the highest a 91.

USG President Malcolm Taaffe said he expects "a lot of flak" concerning the results of the booklet.

Some people question whether or not students are qualified to evaluate teachers and others object to publication of the evaluation results.

USG to ask council for campus patrol

USG members investigating the recent South Campus area arsons have discovered that area citizen's crime patrol units do not patrol the south campus area, where the arsons have been most prevalent.

Chuck Numbers, director of communications for USG, said the Citizen's Crime Reporting Project on campus covers the area between Lane and 11th avenues in the High Street area. The Franklin County Prosecuting Attorney's Office is cosponsoring a Neighborhood Crime Alert, but Bill Owen from that office said they had not yet recruited volunteers for the south campus area.

"This leaves eighth, ninth and 10th avenues unpatrolled by citizen crime patrols right where they are needed most," said USG President Malcolm Taaffe.

Twenty days have elapsed since the last of the 10 arsons occurred. Arsons have plagued the South Campus area since June 14.

THE BEST OF WILLIS

A 1980 Winter Quarter graduate of Ohio State University, Scott Willis attended high school in Fresno, California before coming to the campus in Columbus. Scott has twice won the Sigma Delta Chi award for outstanding journalism in editorial cartoons and has again been re-nominated in 1980. Scott is now working with the Cleveland Press. These cartoons were previously published in the Ohio State Lantern.

The World Around Us

1979 ushered in significant leadership changes in many nations with whom the United States deals. The Shah of Iran was forced from power by the Ayotollah Kohmeini, Samosa was defeated by the Nicaraguan Sandinista, and Idi Amin was chased from Uganda. The final signing of the Israeli-Egyptian Peace Treaty and the rescue of Vietnamese Boat People improved the U.S.'s efforts at bettering world conditions, while the return of gas lines and double digit inflation hurt the economy. Meanwhile, technology was giving many people concern with the Three Mile Island disaster, the falling of Skylab, and the grounding of DC-10's. Two prominent Americans, John Wayne and Nelson Rockefeller died in 1979, but the fascination with King Tut and rollerskating provided entertainment to many Americans.
